Yakima Valley Farm Workers Clinic Welcomes New Clinic Manager

Jessica Johnson joins the team at 11th Ave Family Medicine

YAKIMA - Yakima Valley Farm Workers Clinic is proud to announce Jessica Johnson as the new Clinic Manager for 11th Ave Family Medicine.

Johnson has been with Yakima Valley Farm Workers Clinic for 7 years. Starting as a WIC Certifier, Johnson worked with mothers in and around Yakima Valley.

Johnson then took a larger role with Yakima Valley Farm Workers clinic as a Community Relations Coordinator, where she coordinated outreach events, grand openings, and health fairs across the Pacific Northwest. "I was able to experience Farm Workers as a whole, looking at our unique communities and the goals each clinic has," Johnson stated

During the pandemic, Johnson stepped up to assist Toppenish Medical-Dental Clinic with its new health care challenges, gaining hands-on experience in clinic management. An advantage she'll take to her team at 11th Ave Family Medicine. Johnson hopes to, "Provide the very best care to our patients with the least amount of barriers. As we coordinate care, we keep in mind how we can make it accessible, because at the center of everything, is our patient's wellbeing."
